To Whom It May Concern,

I am writing to you in regards to the matter of the Korean Airliner that was shot down by a Russian fighter jet last year.

One of my constituents told me that he has heard that a CIA report indicated that the Russians did not know that the ill-fated plane was a passenger airliner. If possible, I would like to know if the CIA has prepared and released a report of the Flight 007 incident. Can you verify or refute the assertion that the Russians didn't realize that they were downing a passenger plane?

Please direct your written response to my district office in Ogden, Utah, to the attention of Mrs. Clarke.

Very truly yours,

James V. Hansen
Member of Congress
